Description

Post-production is part of the process of video production, and photography. Post-production includes all stages of production occurring after shooting or recording individual programme segments. This refers to all of the tasks associated with Picture Lock, cutting raw footage, assembling that footage, adding music, Sound Mix and sound effects, just to name a few. Kieli has worked with a variety of great businesses and organisations over the years. Take a look through our services and see how we work with you.
